MONTRÉAL

The Ritz-Carlton

It's still the very best hotel in Montréal. While this grand old lady has been modernized and brought up to date, it still lives up to its elegant reputation. The Executive Suite, which was built to lodge visiting Canadian prime ministers, is perfect for the chief executive and can also accommodate corporate meetings, as can the property's other corporate meeting rooms.

In good weather, guests can enjoy the outdoor garden at one of the property's three restaurants, Le Jardin du Ritz, which features a delightful duck pond and fountain. It is the highlight for luncheons and dinners in Montréal and, in addition to excellent food, exudes a feeling of peace, simplicity, and graciousness.

If you visit Montréal, it's not only a place in which you should stay, but also one you will surely enjoy, since the staff, many of whom have been there for years, is one of the nicest and most efficient in the country.

Of all the hotels in Canada, the Ritz-Carlton, Montréal is one of the greats.

RHODE ISLAND

The Mansions of Newport

If your company wants to do a good public service, and at the same time do something spectacular during meetings, rent a room at one of the fabulous Newport Mansions, where you can have board meetings, dinners, and events for a very low price in some of the most spectacular rooms ever created.

Philip Pelletier, director of special events for the Preservation Society of Newport County, states that the minor amount of money paid for the "use of the hall" goes to help preserve the buildings. So you're doing a good turn as well as having a spectacular meeting.

You can't stay at the mansions, but there's a lovely hotel called Vanderbilt Hall nearby, which has top-notch service, an excellent dining room, and a wonderful staff. The staff of the Preservation Society of Newport County is even friendlier and very anxious to please.

You'll find it well worthwhile to look into those famous Gilded Age mansions, like the Breakers, Marble House, the Chinese Teahouse, the Elms, and Rosecliff.

These places are bargains for special events and meetings, and you will be very well taken care of.

ZURICH

Hotel Savoy Baur en Ville

We have said it many times, but it's still true. In all the world, there are no hoteliers quite like Manfred and Christina Horger, who manage the Hotel Savoy Baur en Ville in Zurich. This is a small hotel where the service is comparable to the Oriental in Bangkok; and the Horgers are there always, watching everything.

This is why the hotel is considered one of the best in the world, and certainly the best in Zurich.

Some of the most important financial meetings are held in the hotel's private dining rooms and some of the world's most important people stay quietly and discreetly in the hotel, watched over by Mr. and Mrs. Horger with grace, dignity, and superb attention.

This is a special place and the Horgers are special people.

NEW YORK

Le Metairie Restaurant

This is a wonderful, secret hideaway with a menu and wine list that rival the finest Upper East Side fancy restaurants.

Sylvain Faresti, the owner, is there every day, which is why the service, the food, and the welcome are all superb – seven days a week for luncheon and dinner.

La Metairie is probably one of the finest French bistros in the United States.

Go there! It's a place that will make you want to get married all over again. If you're not married yet, it's the place where you'll fall in love with whomever you take, as well as with the restaurant itself.
