

Four Seasons Hotel New York

A MOBIL FIVE STAR AND AAA FIVE DIAMOND PROPERTY AS well as the tallest hotel in New York, the I. M. Pei-designed Four Seasons Hotel New York offers visitors to Manhattan a number of magnificent suites to choose from, guaranteeing an outstanding stay in the Big Apple.

The first of four one-of-a-kind specialty suites at the Four Seasons Hotel New York, the Royal Suite is priced at a modest $14,000 per night. At 2,000 square feet, it is located on the 32nd floor via private access, and features two bedrooms and an adjoining library, which can be converted to a third bedroom if need be. Guests can enjoy a spacious living room, a terrace offering city views, and three and a half bathrooms, as well as ample closet space. The decor includes delicately colored natural silks, linens, and wools and light Oriental woods throughout, evoking the atmosphere of an extravagant private apartment. Guests will marvel at silver-leafed elevator doors, leather-paneled headboards, goat-skinned walls, marble floors, and a mother-of-pearl chandelier, among the suite's specialty furnishings and finishes. Visitors eager to stay in touch with the outside world are provided with an array of technological offerings including seven flat-screen and/or plasma televisions, DVD players, premium sound systems, and wall safes which recharge laptop computers, all of which are user-friendly but also concealed, thereby eliminating visual clutter and enhancing the suite's clean lines.

For guests eager to take it to the next level, the Four Seasons' Presidential Suites 5101 and 5102, located on the 51st floor and each priced at $18,000 per night, provide guests exceptional views of the Manhattan skyline via floor-to-ceiling bay windows designed to make guests feel as if they are floating above the city, as well as through balconies stationed on the building's corners, affording a diagonal view of the city. Suite 5101 boasts an extravagant, masculine library with oversized leather club chairs, walls with embossed leather panels, and a marble hearth streaked in shades of toffee and magenta, and the coffee-colored, swirl-pattered carpet covers a floor of ebonized wood. Suite 5102 features cream-colored credenzas along with customized gilt and lacquer game tables, chairs, and fixtures, and a baby grand piano for those eager to engage their musical side.

Encompassing residential living at the highest level, the $50 million-dollar Ty Warner Penthouse, named for the hotel's owner and the suite designed by architects I. M. Pei and Peter Marino, is listed at $35,000 per night and includes all hotel services and amenities. Located atop the 52-story hotel, the suite has an ample 4,300 square feet of space and gives guests access via private elevator. The Penthouse features a library, living room, master bedroom, and spa. Each area boasts a unique design aesthetic, with floor-to-ceiling bay windows, cantilevered glass balconies, vaulted ceilings, and skylights, providing guests with excess natural light and unfettered cross views. The suite also provides a Zen garden, breakfast room, powder room, dressing room, and master bathroom. Guests can indulge in the suite's specially commissioned decor and one-of-a-kind furniture, boasting semi-precious stone surfaces, hand-applied straw marquetry, hand-painted laquer panels, and custom-designed fabrics woven with threads of platinum, gold, and silver. In addition, guests can take advantage of unlimited use of a chauffeured Rolls Royce or Mercedes Maybach, a personal trainer, 24/7 personal butler services, and a full range of spa treatments.

Guests seeking a top-of-the-line New York experience will find just what they're searching for at the Four Seasons Hotel New York. ●

The library of the Penthouse (top left); the bedroom of the Royal Suite (top right); the living room of the Presidential Suite (bottom right)