

Editors'
CHOICE

The Waterside Inn at Bray

NESTLED ON THE BANKS OF THE BEAUTIFUL THAMES RIVER, JUST OUTSIDE LONDON, IS Britain's greatest restaurant, The Waterside Inn at Bray (www.waterside-inn.co.uk).

Director and General Manager Diego Masciaga and the Chef/Owner Alain Roux have mastered not only food but also grace and care, and very personal attention.

There are rooms and suites also at the Inn, so you can stay over after a sumptuous dining experience.

It's worth the short trip, but reserve early for luncheon or dinner – this is the most popular fine restaurant for miles around with three Michelin stars and an excellent, talented, and caring staff.

Go soon – you won't be disappointed. ●

Clockwise from the upper left: Director and General Manager Diego Masciaga; view of The Waterside Inn and its dock from the Thames; Chef/Owner Alain Roux; outdoor dining overlooking the Thames.