

Editors' CHOICE

The Semiramis InterContinental Hotel, Cairo

EACH OF YOU SHOULD VISIT CAIRO, THE Great Pyramid, and the Sphinx many times in life and when you do, here's a tip.

The Semiramis InterContinental Hotel in Cairo has just undergone a multimillion-dollar modernization and is now considered the best hotel in the city. They have 10 Presidential Suites, and sometimes 10 Presidents staying in them, and their restaurants are the "in" places to dine.

The Semiramis is located near the important antiquities, and the concierge can speed you through all the arrangements quickly, including a visit to King Tut in the Cairo Museum.

The Semiramis has remote-control satellite connections, as well as high-speed Internet access, fax, photocopiers, and everything for business as well as pleasure, including one of the most beautiful free form swimming pools in the country.

The Semiramis is rated "superb" and it is. It's ideal for your visit as well as for business meetings. The hotel has some of the best business facilities in Egypt. It's quite a delightful hotel and is well worth the visit. ●

Clockwise from middle left: The Semiramis InterContinental Hotel, Cairo sits on the bank of the Nile; dine by the elegant free form swimming pool; the concierge will be happy to arrange a camel excursion; cater your next corporate gala in the shadow of the Pyramids; the Semiramis Suite, where you can work, relax, or dine with friends while enjoying one of the city's most spectacular views