

Editors'
CHOICE

Ritz-Carlton Montréal

IT'S OPEN. THAT'S IT. THEY SPENT OVER $200,000,000 TO MAKE THE Ritz-Carlton Montréal (ritzcarlton.com/Montreal) one of the very best in North America as well as in the world, while retaining the traditions that made this grand hotel a landmark when it opened 102 years ago.

The dining room's master chef is Daniel Boulud who has quickly made it the best in Montréal. And yes, the ducks still walk back and forth in the Ritz Garden to thrill children and grown-ups alike on sunny days.

However well-designed the rooms and suites are, it is the staff that creates an exceptionally warm and friendly atmosphere, no doubt the result of excellent training.

The General Manager Andrew Torriani is a part of the famous Torriani hotel family, headed by his father Marco Torriani whose two other sons own a large portion of the hotel. They are always on site to make sure everything goes well, which it does – very well indeed.

This is an exceptional hotel, even more so because it combines old charm with every modern convenience. When we say it is one of the best hotels in North America, as well as one of the best in the world, it is with the utmost sincerity, because we tried very hard to find any faults but we couldn't.

P.S. If you want to live there, you can buy a residence apartment for a reasonably good price and it's luxurious. ●

Clockwise from top: Ritz-Carlton Montréal exterior; Maison Boulud restaurant; Royal Suite dining area; a resident apartment; the Oval Room garden terrace

